Diane Brady
Executive Editorial Director, Fortune

Diane Brady is an award-winning global business journalist and author who has interviewed newsmakers worldwide and often speaks about the global business landscape.

In addition to writing the popular CEO Daily newsletter and hosting Fortune's Leadership Next podcast, Diane oversees Fortune's CEO Initiative, which brings together a growing community of global business leaders through conversations, content, and connections. Prior to joining Fortune in February 2024, Brady was assistant managing editor at Forbes, where she oversaw leadership coverage, C-suite networks, and editorial video while building out new events and franchises. She was previously with McKinsey, Bloomberg Businessweek, the Wall Street Journal, and Maclean's. Her book Fraternity was named one of Amazon's best books of 2012, and she also co-wrote the acclaimed Connecting the Dots with former Cisco CEO John Chambers.
