Kristin Stoller
Editorial Director, Fortune

Kristin Stoller is an editorial director at Fortune focused on expanding Fortune's C-suite communities. An experienced journalist and expert in careers and leadership, Stoller was most recently a senior editor at Forbes, where she spearheaded the brand's flagship 30 Under 30 lists, global events, features, and newsletters. While at Forbes, she previously served as the deputy editor of the brand's business and consumer section, reported on all things related to careers and the workplace, and covered world's richest people as a member of the wealth team. She's also held roles at the Hartford Courant and the New Haven Register, covering breaking and local news.
