Mette Refshauge
Corporate Communication & Sustainability, A. P. Moller – Maersk

Mette Refshauge is responsible for Corporate Communication and Sustainability at A.P. Moller - Maersk, a logistics company operating in over 130 countries with 100,000 employees. Previously, she held similar roles in major companies across the telecom, airline, and energy and industrial sectors. She is dedicated to contextualizing how companies balance evolving stakeholder expectations with value creation, corporate citizenship, and responsible business practices, while also developing and future-proofing the role of corporate communicators. In line with this, she co-authored the book Mastering Corporate Communication, published last year.
